

Lovells

FT Legal Innovation Survey

The Financial Times Innovative Lawyers listing for 2006 named Lovells public policy pro bono work as one of the top 10 innovations of the year.

"Lovells: legal work in the community to effect public policy change on human rights, funding for victims of terrorism. Work with social entrepreneurs. This firm is clearly committed to a forward and sophisticated approach to CSR, emphasising sustainable solutions such as its work with Community Interest Companies."
